

When a few can corporations control the source and mass communication content of information, democracy will begin to see its last days.